The Original Six Foundation founded by Governor Nikki Haley and INNERSOLE co-founded by Dawn Staley are teaming together to equip both second graders and teachers when they head back to school for the 2015-16 school year. The Original Six has created an online back-to-school wish list for teachers in the eight counties it serves, with the purpose of the drive being to limit out-of-pocket expenses for both teachers and students.

INNERSOLE will be collecting new sneakers for second graders in schools in the same counties and providing them to students for back-to-school as incentives to engage students in reading as school starts. As part of the EDUCATE MY SOLE initiative there will be a year long competition for students to actively participate in class, attend school, practice good behavior, engage in physical fitness and enhance reading skills.
